My Trait Inventory

Traits are observable characteristics that are passed down from parent to child. You will have many traits in common with other people. Your overall combination of traits makes you unique. Some traits in a population are more common than other traits.

Use the chart to record your traits and the traits of several of your family members. Write down whose traits you recorded. Write "yes" if you see the trait. Write "no" if you do not see the trait. Record hair color, eye color, and male/female.
